We are a responsible supplier to the growing IP convergence industries and focus heavily on supplying only best-of-breed products, providing strong after-sales service and technical support. Vision

“To serve as an inspiration to the industry, our customers and colleagues through everything we do”

Even though we distribute cutting-edge IP technology solution, our business remains focused on people. We have equipped thousands of ICT professionals to embrace these exciting new technologies.

History and Industry Experience

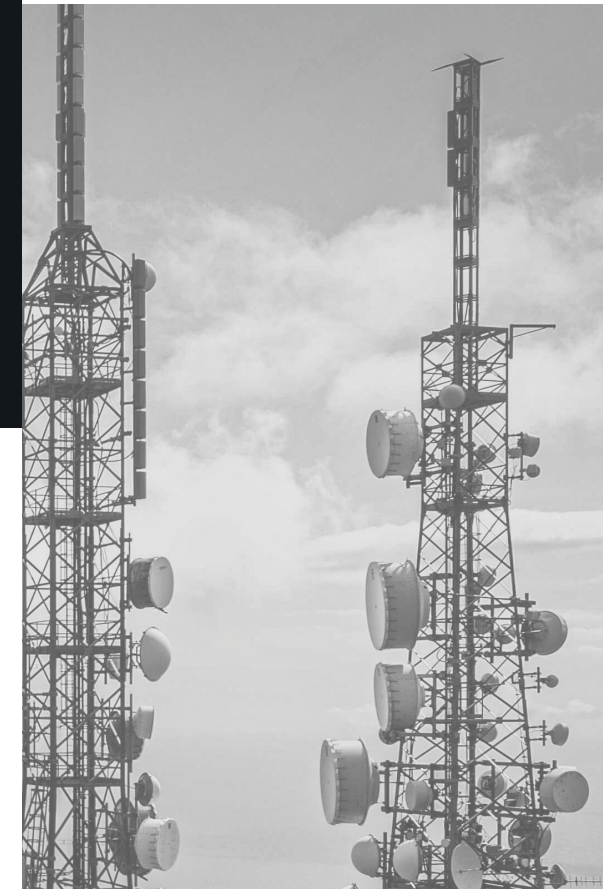

During the infancy of wireless technology adoption in South Africa, MiRO's founders noticed that although people were keen to engage with this powerful new technology, there was no support structure in place to offer customers the right advice, training, professional service and after-sales support to confidently implement and resell wireless IP solutions.

Clients were left to fend for themselves and often made costly mistakes with solutions and legalities around certain products that they didn't completely understand. In 2003 MiRO was then formed to address these challenges.

Over the years, our clients have entrusted us to identify and deliver the right solution for their most critical challenges. Our reputation is founded upon our track-record of success and the following values:

- To build lasting relationships with our customers by constantly exceeding their expectations
 - To empower our customers and colleagues by sharing our knowledge and experience
 - To supply only the best products
- To be accountable through taking ownership of our responsibilities
 - To improve the lives of others by contributing to the community
 - To create a profitable environment by working together as a team

Today MiRO delivers world-class technologies, grows strength to strength and continually strives towards its goal of building close and trusted relationships with its key partners through our highly skilled personnel.
